Ruling Due Hells Canyon Fight in 2 Weeks

EGON, April 15 (UPI)—A federal power commission's long-awaited decision on the disputed dam project will be made in about two weeks, a spokesman said today.

Spokesman William J. Costello will make his recommendation to accept or reject applications by Idaho

Group Adopts 4 Resolutions Of Sportsmen

SHOSHONE, April 15—Members of the Shoshone Rod and Gun club adopted four resolutions Thursday night to be presented to the fourth district meeting of the Idaho Hunting federation at Challis, Idaho.

The sportsman plan to ask the fish and game department to open up a five-day deer hunt in the area east of highway 63 and north of highway 26 and for an experimental mountain sheep hunt on the east fork of the Salmon river.

Another resolution asks that drawings for special hunts be closed by postmark date instead of time date and that all applications be made in writing.

The club is opposed to dams at Bruce, Eddy, and Penny cliffs in northern Idaho but will seek more information on the subject.

The club passed a resolution to ask the fish and game department for a more intensified maple control program.

In addition, the club decided to provide a winter roost for FFA members for their work in predator control.

Members also decided to assist in the planning of the new state fair in Lincoln county next May to investigate eight fairs.

Delegates from the club who will attend the Omnia meeting April 20-22 in the Twin Falls Mungo Inn have formed a local committee; Dick Cole, fish committee; Chalmier Martin, bird committee, and George Roseler, president of the fourth district.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — Neither the Eisenhower administration nor congress will tamper with the antitrust laws as long as present prosperity lasts, despite complaints that the current series of corporate mergers will stifle competition and ruin small business.

Although Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr.'s committee studying these statutes shied off the subject, it rejected their background disquisitions on how to apply the so-called "rule of reason" to the major problems. In the majority belief, our present production and distribution system, despite its great concentrations, is tailored to manufacture and distribute at minimum cost to ultimate consumers.

IMPORTANT MERGERS — The Brownell group agreed to consider some of these corporate mergers, also does not consider monopoly as the chief problem, though that power is used illegally. Nor is it destroying relatively small business, for every great corporation must depend upon thousands of suppliers and subcontractors.

Significantly, the most striking merger has occurred in the food industries, breweries, tobacco, chain stores. The trend has been blamed on the presence of so many top business executives like cabinet—Secretaries Wilson, Humphrey, Weeks.

However, barring the inevitable increases in prices resulting from natural and man-made causes (military spending and consequent inflation), the charges for goods and services to consumers have remained fairly stable. In other words, mergers have not led to gouging.

The Brownell experts took note of a pertinent trend in the last few years. Although the merger movement has reached its peak under Eisenhower, the dollar's purchasing power has increased instead of decreased during this period.

"FAIR TRADE" LAWS — The condemnation of the so-called "fair trade" laws and its adherents furnishes the up-on-their-heels economists. It is the old-fashioned theory—that "the customer is always right." They recognize that the secret of American economic stability—full employment, high wages, maximum and continuing market—low raw materials.

And while he is confronting these thorny matters he will be tried at the same time with the necessity of preserving if he can the substantial economic progress Britain has made in the past few years.

Yet the British can be thankful they have so talented and practiced a public servant to undertake the load. Sir Winston Churchill has now laid aside. Sir Anthony's career is indeed an illustrious one.

He almost perfectly personifies the skilled diplomat—handsome, polished, devoted to the arts of patience and forbearance in international negotiation. Few men in the 20th century have dealt face to face with so many heads of state, including dictators like Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini.

But though he has always been wedded to the belief that differences among men can be talked out, he has demonstrated forcefully that he is not willing to negotiate when it means appeasement. In 1938 he dramatically resigned from the late Prime Minister Chamberlain's cabinet just such an issue.

Most recently, Sir Anthony exhibited his skill at the council table by his painstaking and fruitful labors in helping put over the Paris pact as a substitute for the European defense community rejected by France.

A prime minister, of course, is not simply a foreign secretary who has moved to No. 10 Downing street. But in this turbulent world, command of diplomatic skills and grasp of foreign issues are vital to successful leadership of a great power. Eden has these credentials.

He is no fiery orator like Churchill. He is a mild and moderate man. But those who suggest that this agreeable facade reflects no strength will likely be fooled. Not without good reason was he marked at any early stage for a place in the high councils of government.

Prime Minister Eden moves now in the shadow of his great predecessor. But the prospect is strong that he will make his own light seen.

BRIEFINGS

Sen. Norris Cotton, R., N. H., suspects that members of Congress are so loaded with special briefings and advice that they sometimes ignore plain common sense.

"The intellectual subtlety that abounds in Washington is enough to make your head swim," says Senator Cotton.

Here are some of the examples he gives:

College professors lecture us on the finer distinctions of the philosophies of government. Diplomats brief us on the delicate phases of world relations. Sociologists instruct us on the causes of crime and delinquency and the psychological background of race prejudice.

"As for technical knowledge," adds Senator Cotton in a letter to his constituents, "if you could sit with us in committee rooms listening to scientists, military experts, and economists expound on everything from atomic energy to the stockmarket, you would quickly realize that while we certainly need all the information we can get, too much exposure to technical knowledge can confuse the lawmaker and divert him from the direct, simple reasoning of common sense."

TROPICAL ICE

How much good Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' trip around the Southeast Asia countries did is illustrated by one little incident in Burma.

When the secretary and his staff landed at the Rangoon airport, they were not met by Premier U Nu, nor any high official of the Burmese government.

When the secretary went into conference with the Burmese premier and his cabinet, Mr. Dulles said he had come to get better acquainted and to exchange views.

The premier smiled and said nothing. His ministers and staff were seated around him in Burmese dress and sandals. Only the premier wore western-style shoes, and long socks. For a full minute and a half, the Burmese and American groups sat in silence and stared at each other. Though the outside temperature was tropical, the official Burmese coolness was embarrassingly obvious.

Then Secretary Dulles broke the ice again, and the talks went on. There were two more conferences, both most cordial and frank. In the end, Premier U Nu came to the airport to see the secretary and his staff depart.

POT SHOTS

NO MAN KNOWS

Dear Pot Shots:

Playing Sauter at the Twin Falls public library will take care of doubts. As much official knowledge as can be let out at this time spiced up the vision to see for yourself.

Idaho Indians, esoterics, etc., with all the heckling and lace it. Someone said something about devotion, readiness and unity. Ministers literally have their tongues hanging out each Easter and Christmas eve to make people thoughts to anyone who needs reading.

No man knows the day or hour. Anyone might guess. Even the Indians might be right. Time will tell. Let's hear more and let him know. I am glad to be able to say, me.

It is alleged that during the war Ezra Pound broadcast opinions has no legal or constitutional sanctity.

It is alleged that he also criticized F. D. Roosevelt as many of us did him on the home front, including myself. Pound was brought back to Washington under charges. However, he never was brought to trial, but by consent of counsel admitted he was guilty of treason and was judged to be not guilty or less crazy. His attorney told me he was convinced of this and there is no going behind that declaration.

Others in similar situations who later complained that their assigned counsel was less diligent or competent than they thought should have been. F. D. Roosevelt was committed to St. Elizabeth's hospital, a typical old-style, bug-house on the outskirts of the capital. He has been there all these years so it is not surprising what he went in, he could not come out when he went in.

One reason why the democratic regime under Harry Truman did not wish to bring him to trial is the fact that Pound was associated with the cult which held forth on Riverside drive where "Babbitt" used to live.

It is alleged that he was not himself, used to speak in anti-Soviet and anti-Bloom—the congressional district, now represented by F. D. Roosevelt. He, however, did speak in anti-Bloom's favor. He was chairman of the house foreign affairs committee from Snake River. As an after-thought, he exclaimed, "Even golly, I don't know if that water is open to fishing now or not!"

I think it being it!

Old Poser (Jerome)

WHO'S SHOOTING?

Some people on the Clear Lakes grade last Sunday probably are completely white-haired by now.

After all, they have been shooting at birds since last fall, and the gunfountain and spring part way up the grade. They'd stopped for a drink and apparently filled some water-containers.

Surprisingly, there was a long lull and a cloud of dust enveloped the car. But the fellow must have been glad his car was parked when that left rear tire blew out.

Victim Gets Chance to Aid Self With Present of Electric Typewriter

Her 17-year-old daughter, a nominal price and had it sent to her by Mr. Melvin J. Morgan, the Remington office manager in Kimberly, Idaho, Salt Lake City, for a complete physical examination, was overall healthy. "I was a happy girl," she said.

The repair work was done free and the typewriter returned here by William A. Angerbaumer, district manager of the Remington office. "We feel that this is a good gesture," Angerbaumer said. "It is going to be the step that will make Peggy a self-sustained and assist her in conquering the handicap brought on by polio."

Remington-Rand representatives said that the machine will be maintained and kept in working order without cost to her. Peggy's record of employment after her graduation will be the best guarantee of her future.

Peggy has taken typing in school.

The electric typewriter is because of the light-touch required for its operation, the only kind she can operate. A conventional type machine is too heavy for her crippled fingers.

The new machine will give the young girl an opportunity to practice at home in addition to the experience she is gaining in her typing class at school.

Despite her handicap, Peggy is an active girl at school. She takes part in all of the junior class activities.

"As a matter of fact," she says, "my mother thinks I'm doing too much."

Peggy has been to Kimberly after two years of treatment at San Francisco. She is going back again this summer for a checkup.

Solons Study Plan to Boost Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON, April 15 (UPI)—The House Select Committee on Small Business asked Congress to apply the minimum wage to 200,000 more workers and raise the minimum from 75 to 90 cents an hour.

Rep. John J. Mitchell, chairman of the select committee, put him over as a proponent of favoring an increase of 15¢ or more.

Want Higher Floor

Strong sympathy has been expressed by northern members of Congress for the original proposal. Both political parties are supporting a $1.25 wage floor, the goal for which the AFL and CIO are fighting.

The debate on the politically-warm issue started early and may continue before the Douglas subcommittee for three or four weeks.

Michigan's Case

Mitchell said his words carefully, said it was the administration's "serious recommendation" that congress consider extension of coverage to small-state retail outlets such as chain grocery stores; to employees of chain hotels and motion picture theaters; and to some 150,000 employees engaged in wholly intrastate work but whose employers are principally in the interstate field.

The present 75-cent minimum applies to 24 million workers. Mitchell said he had been unable to immediate higher pay checks for 1,300,000 workers now making less than 90 cents an hour.

Living Costs Rise

Mitchell said the cost of living since 1950, when the 75-cent floor was set, has increased 13 per cent. A new minimum of 90 cents, he testified, would more than compensate for the increase in living costs.

Financial opposition to an increase in the minimum wage is certain to come from southern Democratic Wages in the south are generally lower than those paid to northern workers.

Youth Legislature Events Set Today

BOISE, April 16 (UPI)—The annual Idaho youth legislature opens today with about 170 young people from throughout the state expected to attend the two-day session.

Gov. Robert E. Kipp opened the session in the house chamber.

Bills will be introduced and considered by committees the first day, debated and voted upon Saturday.

Cattle Breeders' Group Will Meet

BOISE, April 16 (UPI)—The Pacific Northwest Sheep & Swine Breeders' association will hold a dinner meeting in Boise Wednesday and a sale the next day, the president of the Idaho association announced yesterday.

Ruben Knight, NARBA, who spoke would include Clark Schilfner, Portland, president of the national association, and George L. Wiss, international secretary, and G. G. Anderson, Boise, dairy specialist with the University of Idaho extension service.

New Carey Officers Study Program

PTA Officers Seated During Ceremonies at Carey School

CAREY, April 15.—A new slate of officers was installed Tuesday evening at the PTA meeting. The meeting also featured a "program" built around the theme, "who shall teach our children?"

Installed were Spencer Toone, president; Robert Day, vice president; Mrs. John Briggs, second, vice president; Mrs. Lester L. Leiter, treasurer. Installing officer was Mrs. Lyn Adamson.

Featured speaker of the evening was Lester Haagenson, Holley high school teacher, who spoke on the subject of teaching from early history to the present day.

Haagenson said that from the group of students expecting to go to college, he found only one who had the University of Idaho, only three will remain to teach next year in Idaho. Many states and cities are offering higher salaries than Idaho to get the best young teachers.
